

The Pterosaur Database

Muzquizopteryx coahuilensis

A pterosaur discovered at Coahuil, Mexico in Upper Cretaceous deposits. UNAM IGM 8621; nearly complete and articulated specimen showing evidence of some soft tissue.

Holotype: UNAM IGM 8621

Stinnesbeck W., Irim C., Schmidt H., Rindfleisch A., Buchy M.-C., Frey E., González-González A. H., Vega F. J., Cavin L., Keller G., and Smith K. T., 2005, A new lithographic limestone deposit in the Upper Cretaceous Austin Group at El Rosario, county of Múzquiz, Coahuila, northeastern Mexico: Revista Mexicana de Ciencias Geológicas, vol. 22, 3, p. 401-418.

Frey E., Buchy M.-C., Stinnesbeck W., González A.G., and di Stefano A. 2006. Muzquizopteryx coahuilensis n.g., n. sp., a Nyctosaurid pterosaur with soft tissue preservation from the Coniacian (Late Cretaceous) of northeast Mexico (Coahuila). Oryctos 6:19-40.