

The Pterosaur Database

Pterosaur species

A bone originally classified as a coelurosaurian fibula by Huene in 1926 has been re-examined and interpreted as a wing phalange II of a large pterosaur. The specimen comes from Solothurn Turtle Limestone, a Late Jurassic sediment of Kimmeridgian age, from an old quarry near St. Niklaus, Solothurn, Switzerland.

No image

Mayer C. A., 1999, The first pterosaur from the Late Jurassic of Switzerland: evidence for the largest Jurassic flying animal. Oryctos, vol. 2: 111-116.